BODY COPY — CRIMSON PRO / 400, 500

The study, published in The Lancet, followed 12,000 participants over eight years. What they found challenges everything we thought we knew about metabolic health — and raises uncomfortable questions about who funded the original research.

Illustrations

Every article has two illustration variants that swap with the theme. Both are abstract, conceptual, and never literal. No text, no human faces, no clipart. Subtle scientific motifs only.

VARIANT	AESTHETIC	BACKGROUND	REFERENCE
Dark	Moody, atmospheric, painterly with grain	Deep blacks, rich shadows	Vanity Fair × Nature
Light	Airy, luminous, soft watercolor wash	Warm whites, soft creams	Scientific American × Kinfolk

Key Don'ts

- Never use pure black (`#000`) or pure white (`#fff`) — use the warm `black` / `white` tokens
- Never hardcode hex values in components — use Tailwind tokens or CSS variables
- Never use cool grays — always the stone palette
- Never use `transition: all` — specify explicit properties
- Never scale or translate large cards on hover — shadow/glow changes only
- Never use `backdrop-blur` heavier than `md` — kills performance on scroll
- Never use `100vh` — use `100dvh` for iOS compatibility
- Never put text on illustrations
